

GERMANY'S ACTING AMBASSADOR HERE

Baron von Thiermann Will Prepare Way for New Envoy, Soon to Be Appointed.

DISCOUNTS FRENCH FEAR

Economic Conditions Bad, He Says—Grateful to Americans for Saving His Life.

Baron Edmund von Thiermann of Görlitz, Saxony, arrived here yesterday on the Scandinavian liner Hellig Olav to assume the post of Acting Ambassador of Germany in Washington. He is the first German diplomat to arrive here since Count von Bernstorff sailed away by request.

The Baron is in striking contrast to German diplomats of pre-war days, for he arrived clad in a worn suit of clothes, a battered black and white cap and an overcoat which appeared to have once been part of a uniform. He freely admitted the poverty of his country, and said it would cost Germany an amazing sum, figured in marks, to maintain an embassy here. He was frank in his statements, and explained that he came only to prepare the way for the German Ambassador, who will soon be appointed and to whom he will become counselor.

Although Baron von Thiermann, who is 37 years old, has been in the diplomatic service ten years, this is his first visit to this country. He said he considered that Americans had saved his life during the war, as American Red Cross, Y. M. C. A. and other workers had kept him supplied with food while he was in a Siberian prison after his capture while serving as a lieutenant of cavalry on the eastern front.

One of the first things Baron von Thiermann made plain was that he had not come to this country to "spy on the conference."

"Germany was not invited and has nothing to do with it," he said.
"France's fear of Germany, he said, is needless. France has nothing to fear from Germany," he declared. "Germany is absolutely disarmed. We have less than 100,000 men in the armed forces, and these are all militia. We have delivered all our arms and munitions to the allied commission. Germany couldn't fight even if war was forced on her. The people would revolt at the idea of war."

"There is, of course, some bitter feeling in Germany against France because of the firm belief that France is preparing to take the entire west bank of the Rhine, just as she took the Saar coal mines. The French have 150,000 troops on the left bank of the Rhine.
Ten thousand would be sufficient, as Germany could not resist an armed invasion by even this number. In addition there are British and American troops. The people of that region have grown very fond of the American soldiers."

Baron von Thiermann said Germany will try to pay the reparations, as the Government has resolved to pay as long as possible. He said the economic condition of the German people as a whole is bad. Workmen are not so badly off as the middle class, or those living on incomes, for wages have increased as the mark's value has dwindled.
"Americans have some false ideas concerning Germany now," he said.
"There may be a few concerns working at 100 per cent. capacity, but the majority are working at only 20 or 40 per cent., and thousands of factories are only 10 per cent. or less."

other persons were reported injured in a tornado which struck this territory last night. The dead are Mrs. Cora Chaffin and her children, Cass Francis and Mollie Francis.

MORGAN MAKES PLEA FOR HOSPITAL FUND

Costs $15,000,000 a Year to Operate 57 Institutions.

William Fellowes Morgan, president of the Merchants Association and recently elected chairman of the executive committee of the United Hospital Fund, said yesterday that maintenance of the fifty-seven leading hospitals of the city is a problem that must be dealt with as a unit. During the last year these hospitals cared for 188,532 bed patients and 629,732 dispensary cases, of which 48 per cent. were too poor to pay for the service, Mr. Morgan said. "It costs $15,000,000 a year to operate these hospitals," he added, "of which amount $4,000,000 must be raised annually through the appeal of the United Hospital fund."

"There must be a wise development of the hospitals in the interest of the whole city," he said. "The hospitals must not be allowed to curtail their service through public neglect."

BLIND MAN CONVICTED OF THEFT FROM BLIND

Pleds He Had Permission to Pawn Watch.

Christian Schneider, a blind man, was found guilty yesterday in the Court of Special Sessions, Brooklyn, of the theft of a watch, with raised figures, belonging to Peter Fesselmeier, also blind, of 24 East 122d street, Manhattan.

Fesselmeier and other blind men, it was testified, slept in Schneider's room on the night of November 2. Fessel-meier said he could not find his watch the next morning but eventually discovered that it had been sold to a bartender for $5. Schneider said Fessel-meier gave him permission to pawn the watch to get money for Schneider's room rent. This Fesselmeier denied.
Justices McInerney, O'Keefe and Salmon suspended sentence without comment. The charge was petty larceny.
Schneider lives at 37 Scholes street, Brooklyn.

31 FACTORY INSPECTORS SUE FOR REINSTATEMENT

Were Laid Off in June for Lack of Funds.

Thirty-one factory inspectors who were on the payroll of the State Department of Labor last June, but were laid off then because Commissioner Henry D.
Sayer lacked funds with which to pay them, applied to the Supreme Court yesterday for a writ of mandamus compelling Mr. Sayer to reinstate them.
In asking for an order of mandamus they declare that Mr. Sayer violated the law in not discharging them in the inverse order of their appointment, and that had he done so and discharged other inspectors instead of those who would still be holding their positions, Justice Burr will hear argument on the application to-morrow.

HERALDIC ART HEAD IS PLACED ON PAROLE

S. A. Rush Must Make Good
With His Patrons.

Simon A. Rush, head of the American Heraldic Art Company, with offices in Manhattan, and living at 127 Schermerhorn street, Brooklyn, was placed on parole yesterday afternoon by Judge Garvin in the United States District Court in Brooklyn, until March 1, next, with instructions to make good losses which he is alleged to have caused clients of the Heraldic Art Company.
Rush was charged with using the mails to defraud, it being alleged he advertised he would trace family genealogies and supply coats of arms for $10.
He failed to carry out these promises but kept the money, it was alleged.
Judge Garvin refused to dismiss the indictment found against Rush.

That you may have Your Milk

THE cow is a monopolist. The milk she gives cannot be duplicated or even successfully imitated. That is why each day we must go to her pasture and perform a modern miracle in transporting this milk fresh and sweet to the people of the big cities within a few short hours.

Last year the Lackawanna Railroad transported for the use of Greater New York a daily average of 8874 cases of bottled milk containing 12 bottles to the case and 8290 cans of loose milk and cream containing 40 quarts to the can. This is equal to 60 solid carloads of milk every day in the year, or seven or eight trainloads of average length. These trains are operated on fast schedules by the same powerful locomotives that haul the passenger flyers.

The Lackawanna handles 15% of New York's huge supply and reaches out as far as Richfield Springs, N. Y., two hundred and ninety-five miles away, in order to satisfy the City's demands.

Milk on the Lackawanna is carried in refrigerator cars constructed for milk traffic exclusively. It is thoroughly iced in order to conform to the New York Health Department rule that all milk must arrive at a temperature not higher than 50 degrees Fahrenheit.
